

CAN NOT SAVE HIS ARMY NOW

Japs Have Gotten Behind Kuropatkin And Cut Off His Retreat To The North.

THE ISLANDERS WIN GREAT FIGHT

Accounts Of The Horrible Massacres Have Been Drifting In Through The Dispatches All Day.

[SPECIAL BY SCRIPTS-M'RAE.]

Tokio, March 9.—It is officially announced the Japanese have reached the railway north of Mukden after severe fighting. The last hope of Kuropatkin to save the remnant of his army is gone.

Already in Mukden

Berlin, March 9.—The Anzeiger prints a dispatch that the Japanese have occupied Mukden.

Again Reported

Washington, March 9.—A Takahira dispatch from Tokyo says Oyama expects to occupy Mukden today. He has issued orders as to conduct of troops in the city.

Tokio, March 9.—The great battle in Manchuria raged all day yesterday along the entire enormous front, but it is believed that the Japanese have cut the telegraph and the railway north of Mukden, leaving only the roadways and a light railway from Fushun to Tie pass as avenues for the retreat of the Russians, but army headquarters refrain from affirming or denying a report to that effect.

The continuous battle is already the bloodiest of the war. Upon the ground that Gen. Oku alone gained 15,000 Russian dead.

The reports from the other armies are expected to triple this figure. It is estimated that the Japanese have lost 50,000, making the joint slaughter far exceed 100,000 men.

Faces Complete Disaster.

It seems imperative that Gen. Kuropatkin will have to withdraw his shattered legions to avoid a complete disaster. Indeed, it appeared impossible for him to effect a retreat without heavy losses of prisoners, guns and stores.

The details of operations against Fushun are not yet at hand, but it is understood that, following the capture of Manchuria, the Japanese renewed the assault on Tientsin and dislodged the Russians.

Various reports are in circulation concerning prisoners of war, but it is impossible to obtain reliable information as to the number taken.

It is thought that Mukden is still in the hands of the Russians.

Oyama's headquarters reports that the Russians commenced to retreat Wednesday morning. All Japanese armies are in hot pursuit of the enemy.

KOUROPATKIN RETREATS.

Mukden, March 9.—The torn and shattered divisions of Kuropatkin's army, which ten days ago numbered 400,000 men, are retreating.

Oyama's victory is complete. His strategy has outmaneuvered Kuropatkin's stubborn endurance.

Mukden is still in Russian hands, but the victorious army is already knocking at its gates with its cannon, and Oyama's entry into the city is only a question of hours.

The Russian losses are enormous. It is feared they will reach 100,000 in killed and wounded.

Kaulbars lost 10,000 men in four days trying to check the advance. Sunday he lost 2,000 in Nogi's first onslaught. Monday he lost 5,000 to 6,000 more. Tuesday afternoon and night he lost 7,000 more.

Rennenkampf in Peril.

Gen. Rennenkampf's corps, it is believed, has been cut off from retreat. He had nearly 50,000 men when he went into battle. In the eighteen days he has been fighting he has lost a fourth of his men. The rest may be prisoners by night.

The army may never reach Tieling. It is feared the Japanese already are there.

Nogi's troops are four miles west of Hushatai, the railway station fifteen miles north of Mukden.

Another Japanese force is east of the railroad, three and a half miles north of the imperial tombs, northeast of the city.

The great bulk of the Russian army still is south of Mukden. This is the most alarming feature of the situation.

It is feared that long before Kuropatkin's forces can cross the Hun river east of the city a chain of Japanese troops will be stretched across his path to the northward and the road to Tieling will be impossible.

Battle About Mukden.

The mighty roar of the battle rising from the incessant thunders from 2,500 guns is sweeping over Mukden from east, west, north and south. The city is completely encircled by the combat.

Every hour adds to the already enormous number of killed.

Kuropatkin has been burning his stores for three days, hundreds of tons of clothing and provisions have been destroyed.

Tuesday morning's dawn marked the beginning of the rout. At that hour Kaulbars, exhausted after four days and nights of continuous battle, was still fighting with the desperation of despair at Ushutun, seven miles west of Mukden railway station, while Nogi was extending his lines still farther northward toward Tie Pass.

Ushutun proved too hard a nut for Kaulbars to crack. The houses of the village are, constructed with thick walls and the villages are surrounded by high clay ramparts, converting them into fortifications impervious to rifle bullets. Each house had to be taken singly by hand-to-hand combat.

Forces Kaulbars to Quit.

Again and again the Russians advanced to the attack. Under the eyes of Gen. Kaulbars, who, with his staff, moved about where the hail of iron was thickest and who seemed to bear a charmed life, the riflemen deployed over the plowed fields as if at maneuvers and without firing a shot, though beset by the continuous bursting of shrapnel and lead. They pushed eagerly forward in close skirmishing order, captured the village, and advanced on the Japanese flanks.

The fight then grew more bitter, the Japanese attacking madly, and at 4 o'clock in the afternoon the Russian position became untenable and Gen. Kaulbars withdrew his troops, the Japanese bidding them adieu with a burst of shrapnel shells.

Short of Ammunition.

Opposite Tatchekiao the fighting was of an equally desperate nature. The Russians established themselves in the villages of Tshuanancho and Ludyuefan, but night fell with Tatchekiao still in the hands of the Japanese.

Northward of Tatchekiao the cannon also roared. There a regiment under the command of Col. Zapolski, clung tenaciously to a village under a shower of shrapnel until it was compelled to withdraw.

Toward evening Gen. Kuropatkin rode out of Mukden in an automobile and examined personally the positions of the second army.

At the close of the fighting this evening the infantry on both sides were short of ammunition and Gen. Kuropatkin reluctantly gave the order to retire.

CZAR HEARS OF DEFEAT.

St. Petersburg, March 9.—The serious news of Kuropatkin's defeat was received by the czar at Tsarkoe Selo before noon on Wednesday. Gen. Kuropatkin reported that the Japanese had massed an enormous force to the northwest of Mukden, necessitating his immediate retreat.

It is feared the Russians will have to cut their way to Tieling, which is a three days' march north of Mukden.

If the Japanese are able to intercept the Russian retreat Gen. Kuropatkin will run the risk of being annihilated. His present whereabouts is unknown even to the general staff.

Great admiration is expressed by the general staff for the Japanese tactics.

The battle of Mukden has resulted in a Russian defeat.

Field Marshall Oyama has once more proved himself one of the greatest masters of offensive strategy since Napoleon.

Gen. Kuropatkin is now engaged in endeavoring to defend his title as a master of successful retreats and bring off his army with its immense train, safely to Tie pass, where a position was long ago prepared with this contingency in view.

ONE CRIME REVEALS OTHERS

Postal Clerk's Arrest for Theft Discloses Poolroom Violations.

St. Louis, Mo., March 9.—On the charge of having embezzled $400 of money order and postal funds Wright A. Salter, postal clerk at the Planters' hotel substitution, was arrested following an investigation of his accounts. According to the police Salter confessed that he had lost money in poolroom betting. As poolroom betting was supposed to have been stopped by a recent police order, Chief of Police Kiehl immediately ordered that a raid be made. This resulted in the arrest of C. J. Brockmiller, J. Gorman, Sam Allen and Thomas Freeman on the charge of conducting handbooks. The four were locked up and Salter "held for the chief."

FAIRY TALE OF A CORRESPONDENT

Believes the State Administration Is Seeking For Further Excuse to Continue Fight.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 9.—The embalming of an issue or how to keep the factional hatchet sharp and bright is the subject of an interesting story that is going the rounds of the capital corridors, principally among the opponents of the administration. The story is interesting, indeed, but it is impossible of being substantiated by those who must know whether it is true or false. It is to the effect that the La Follette faction is praying that the rate commission bill in the senate or so amend it that the executive will have a good excuse for refusing his approval. Thus it is hoped, so goes this fantastic tale, that the railroad rate issue will be preserved and the quarrel of the republicans of Wisconsin be kept up to furnish the fuel for the political husting fires of 1906.

Unhorse Davidson

This story involves the prediction of the unhorsing of James O. Davidson in his quest of a gubernatorial nomination. The story is currently told in various form and with many variations of detail. Administration leaders profess that it is manifestly ridiculous. Stalwarts smile and say they are not in a position to know. This story contradicts that of last week, that stalwart senators were as graceful as possible climbing upon the La Follette wagon and would vote for the rate commission bill.

Another Recruit.

It is now said that Senator Hermon Whippman of Grand Rapids has gone over to the opposition to a railroad commission. This accession of strength, it is said, has so encouraged the stalwarts that they have made a new canvass and are confident of being able to control the situation, either to emasculate the administration bill or defeat it. Senator Wilcox they say has been lured by a consular appointment graciously handed out by Senator Spooner. Senator Stevens was never accused of being very abject in his devotion to the administration cause and Senator Froemming, it is whispered, has such business relations with Charles F. Pfister of Milwaukee as to greatly admire the opinion of that gentleman and be disinclined to lay "unreasonable hardships" upon the railroads. These losses would destroy the administration control of the upper branch of the legislature.

Of course there is no way of verifying this report. It is part of that great volume of gossip that is heard under the great white dome. It is worth telling in the sense that it is one of those tales that are designated as highly "important" it true.

PRESIDENT TO CONTROL CANAL

Plans To Reduce The Commission By Leaving Vacancies On The Board.

NEW SCHEME TO SECURE HARMONY

Admiral Walker Is To Be Retired, and Men Placed In Charge Who Will Follow Directions.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Washington, March 9.—President Roosevelt is dissatisfied with the results achieved by the Panama canal commission and proposes radical changes, including, it is said, the retirement of Admiral Walker and the reduction of the membership to three. It is the president's intention to get together a force that will work harmoniously and do things.

As constituted now, the commission is regarded as unwieldy and as containing too many elements which have to be adjusted, one to another, before anything definite can be done. To remedy this defect the president, it is believed, will reduce the membership of the body and place in immediate supervision of the canal workmen who will work in consonance with the ideas of himself and Secretary Taft. In doing this, the president will reduce the commission to three members simply by not filling the places of those whose resignations shall have been accepted.

APPROPRIATIONS.

Rival Leaders Make Comparisons With Cleveland's Term.

Washington, March 9.—Statements issued for publication in the Congressional Record by Mr. Hemenway, late chairman of the house committee on appropriations, and by Mr. Livingston, the ranking member of the minority on the same committee, agree that the total appropriations for the session just closed were $318,478,314 for the fiscal year ending June 30, 1906, as against $781,172,375 for the previous year. Mr. Livingston makes a comparison of the four years of the last Cleveland administration and the four years of the administration just closed, showing that in 1893-1896, the appropriations were $2,016,343,753, and for the years 1902-1906, they were $3,153,851,302, and 147's the difference to the cost of the spirit of militarism under Roosevelt. He also calls attention to the fact that the estimated revenues of $725,590,515 are $92,838,399 less than the total of appropriations. Mr. Hemenway says he is advised that the deficiency in the government revenues for the current fiscal year will not exceed $18,000,000, which is largely due to unforeseen expenditures amounting to $13,000,000 for new naval vessels and a probable deficit of about $5,000,000 in the postal department.

NEGROES GIVE THANKS.

Leaders Express Appreciation of President's Stand for Equality.

Washington, March 9.—Bishops A. Grant, Alexander Walters and B. W. Arnett of the African Methodist Episcopal church headed a delegation of members of the sociological congress which called on President Roosevelt to urge him to recommend to congress the appointment of a commission to suggest a plan for the betterment of the condition of the negro race. In an address Bishop Grant said they came as the representatives of a large constituency of negroes to thank him for the "splendid position" he had taken of equal justice to all men, regardless of color, creed, section or race; also for the nomination of Charles A. Anderson as collector of internal revenue in New York. Informally the delegation suggested the reduction of the representation in congress from states which discriminate politically against negroes. President Roosevelt promised to give the subject consideration. Rev. Dr. Dean Richmond Babbitt, president of a commission on the race problem, in an address here urged the negroes to leave the South and go to the North and West as a means to securing their rights.

MORMONS CAUGHT IN GAS EXPLOSION

Meeting-House at Granger, Utah, Is Blown Up, Many Persons Being Hurt in Ensuing Panic.

Salt Lake City, Utah, March 9.—An explosion of illuminating gas in the cellar of the Mormon meeting-house at Granger, fourteen miles southeast of Salt Lake City, caused the death of one young woman and seriously injured twenty-six other persons, mostly young women and children. The meeting-house was wrecked.

While the Granger Mutual Improvement association was in session the lights went out. A boy went into the cellar with a lamp to see what was wrong and the explosion followed. Miss Nellie Mackay, the church organist, who was standing directly over the gas tank, received the full force of the explosion and was instantly killed.

A panic ensued among the audience and in their efforts to escape from the wrecked building many who had not been injured by the force of the explosion were trampled upon.

A new bill was introduced by the manufacturers and labor committee to appropriate $600,000 for capitol repairs, creating a new commission of practical architects and restricting the builder to Wisconsin residents. Lieut.-Gov. Davidson appointed Assemblymen Fear, Roehr and Rummel to investigate life insurance, with a view to establishing a state system. The bill cutting down wages from $90 to $80, was passed by the assembly after a spirited debate, by a vote of 61 to 37. The bill to increase the salaries of clerks in the insurance commissioner's department was advanced to its third reading.

DIRECT SLAP ON RAILROADS' PART

NEW MOVE INAUGURATED BY COMMON CARRIERS TODAY.

WILL STOP IMPROVEMENT

Claim Made That Under Existing Legislation Wisconsin Is Not a Safe State.

Wisconsin has drawn the wrath of the railroads. Resentful because of the attitude of Governor La Follette and the state legislature, the public carrier companies have decided to abandon all extensions in the state until the popular temper becomes more friendly. The building of new lines is to be stopped, orders for new equipment are to be canceled, projected improvements that would cost millions of dollars are to be stayed, and the North-Western, the St. Paul and other roads will engage the state in a game of freeze-out, says the Chicago Record-Herald.

Many Millions This decision will stop, it is stated, fully $10,000,000 worth of improvements which the North-Western and St. Paul roads had purposed making during 1905. The North-Western especially had planned several hundred miles of extensions in the state, including the Sheboygan, Green Bay, and North-Western road, and upon all of these President Haight has ordered work and preparation of plans stopped. This prescription will extend, it is stated, to terminal improvements and the provision of facilities for shippers other than are actually necessary.

Matter of Business The measures are not being taken in a retaliatory spirit, it is stated, but purely as a business proposition. There is also a feeling that there is lack of appreciation on the part of the public for what the railroads have done to develop the resources of the state. Unless public sentiment changes the development work also will be minimized. In short, the railroads purpose doing as little as they can for the Wisconsin public so long as the Wisconsin public is trying to do what it can to injure the railroads.

Two Deferred Two of the projected extensions of the North-Western that have been deferred have been matters of common railroad knowledge for some time. Before the case stopping work was sent out the managers of the company had decided to build a road from Lake Bluff to Milwaukee, a distance of fifty miles, at a probable cost of $2,000,000. They also had decided on a cutoff between Manitowish and Green Bay, which would bring the two cities to within thirty-five miles of each other by rail. At present travelers are forced to ride over two sides of an acute triangle, running to Appleton Junction or alighting at Kaukauna and walking across the city. This improvement was estimated to cost in the neighborhood of $2,000,000.

Blow to Lumbermen Besides these extensions the North-Western has surveyed a road through the timber districts near Manitowish intended to tap the region of the fishing lakes around which a lumber company has secured over 400,000 acres of pine and hard wood. Construction was to have been started some time this year, but the route probably will be abandoned for the present, to the joy of sportsmen and resort-keepers and to the chagrin of the lumbermen.

While the St. Paul has under contemplation improvements not quite so great as those of the North-Western, the managers were planning several spurs and additions to track. Other roads improvements larger than those of the two last years, and all will be given up until the storm of anti-corporation sentiment blows over.

At Madison no lull in the anti-railroad agitation seems in sight, and the only effect of the edict so far has been to arouse indignation among the legislators.

WILL COOPERATE WITH COLLEGES

Closer Relations Between University and Lawrence and Ripon Established.

Madison, Wis.—The University of Wisconsin, Lawrence University, and Ripon College have just entered into an agreement designed to bring about a closer relation between these institutions. The new plan, of co-operation is regarded as a significant one, marking as it does, the bringing into a closer relation these important representatives of the institutions of higher education of the state. In accordance with this new plan which was drawn up by President Hughes of Ripon College, President Plantz of Lawrence College, and President Van Hise of the University, and duly approved by the governing bodies of the three institutions, Lawrence and Ripon will adopt the unit system of admission and will require for entrance the equivalent of fourteen units of work, exclusive of manual training and commercial studies, which are the present requirements of admission to the University. Adopting the same entrance requirements as those of the University of Wisconsin, Ripon and Lawrence will be furnished the university authorities for their use.

The new arrangement also affects the migration of students from these colleges to the university. Students who go from Ripon and Lawrence at the end of the sophomore year with a satisfactory record for two years of work may enter as juniors in the college of letters and science of the University of Wisconsin. In case of migration earlier than the sophomore year proportionate credit will be given by the university. In accordance with the general university policy, students who hold the degrees of one of these colleges will be accepted by the State University as graduate students.

For students of Ripon and Lawrence who desire to take up, at the university, professional and technical courses which are not offered by these colleges, the new plan provides that graduates of Lawrence and Ripon who have taken the mathematics, physics group of studies at these institutions and who have also taken descriptive geometry, mechanical drawing, and surveying, substantially equivalent to these studies in the college of engineering at the University of Wisconsin, may enter the college of engineering as juniors. Students who take two years in the mathematics-physics group may enter as sophomores in the university college of engineering. Thus the students of Lawrence and Ripon may transfer to the college of engineering on the same basis as the students of the college of letters and science of the university.

It will also be possible for students who desire to take up the study of law in the university college of law to receive credit for their law studies in part requirement towards the bachelor's degree at these institutions. By this plan it will be possible for the students to combine the general education of the college course with the technical and professional work, and reduce the length of combined courses by from one to two years.

REGULAR FIGHT COMES UP AGAIN

Foe of Telephone Trust—Assemblyman John S. McDonald.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.] Madison, Wis.—The biennial fight of the associated independent telephone companies of Wisconsin is being championed in the legislature this winter by Assemblyman John S. McDonald, Dane county. He is pushing a bill to prevent the Bell or any other system owning exchanges in more than one city to charge more in one place than is charged for like service in any other similarly sized city. His idea is to prevent the ruinous competition of the large concerns, which, he says, make very low rates where independent companies start, give the service at a loss and drive out the independent company, then raise the rates to make up the loss. Mr. McDonald says his bill would make rates come down all over the state when the trust tried to drive out one independent company. He is a farmer of education, a bachelor of science, holding a degree from the Northern Illinois college, Valparaiso, and also has a diploma as dentist from a Chicago college. He is 32 years old and is serving his second term in the legislature, being chairman of the dairy and food committee. He is urging legislation to require creameries and cheese factories to be more clean and sanitary.

AVON WILL BUILD DRAINAGE DITCH

Will Improve Much Land—Judge Dunwiddie on Request Appoints a Canal Commission.

Judge Dunwiddie in the circuit court here appointed a commission consisting of Leroy Stokes, K. Sterndock and John Gibbertson to carry out the Avon "canal" project that has been under way for a long time. A vast territory in the township is flooded every time there is high water, which can be drained with a suitable ditch, and after obtaining competent engineers it has been decided to make the ditch 60 rods long and at places 25 feet wide and 6 feet deep, which will empty into the Sugar river and will carry off a large volume of water. The ditch will cost a considerable sum of money and the construction has been left to the town supervisors (but there were those on the board who thought that the work should be in the hands of a commission outside the board and Judge Dunwiddie was asked and has appointed this commission. The "canal" as the people of Avon are pleased to call the proposed ditch because of its magnitude will make much land that is under water several times in the season very valuable and the farmers interested will welcome the action of the judge in getting the business into shape that the enterprise can be carried on. It is expected that the work of excavating will commence at an early date.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis., March 9.—An official opinion has been asked from the attorney general of the state regarding the legality of the expenditures of the capitol commission. Pending this opinion no claims against the state which have been incurred through the agency of this commission will be added. Formal refusal of payment was made this week by State Treasurer Kemper of two claims which had been created at the instance of the commission and a formal request was made by Mr. Kemper upon Atty. Gen. Sturdevant, this week for an opinion as to the legality of the acts of the commission. Mr. Sturdevant said that this opinion had not yet been prepared, but that the request had been made and that the opinion would be gotten out as soon as possible. An opinion in this case may be far reaching in character for the reason that some of the expenditures at least in the repair of the capitol after the fire might be involved. By many attorneys it is believed that in obtaining plans for an entirely new capitol under a law which only made provision for the obtaining of plans for an addition to the capitol commission went beyond its authority, especially as in accordance with the terms of the law it had itself expired by limitation prior to the time that the commission made arrangements to secure plans for a new capitol.

MERELY A ROW AMONG STUDENTS

Athletic Meeting Ended Up in a Big Row Among the Members.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]

Madison, Wis.—The total inability of the presiding officer to maintain any semblance of parliamentary decorum or order turned the mass-meeting of the university athletic association last night into a disorderly howling, fighting, swearing mob. There were occasions when fists were shaken in opponents' faces and threats of things terrible were belted out as from the throats of goaded bulls, when language so violent as to be unfit for saloon crowds was roared forth, the lie was passed and—well, at midnight the scene became quiet as much through the exhaustion of the belligerents as the orders of the janitor that the fight must adjourn.

The meeting was held to take action on the proposed new constitution of the university athletic association. The work of the recent agitation practically came to nothing. The most important reform measure, the provision that the election of officers and members of the board of athletic directors be elected by the Australian ballot, being voted down.

COLD KILLS THE GERM.

Lieut. Perry Says There Are No Bald Heads in the Arctic Region.

The people who come back from Klondike testify to the fact that no native bald heads are there. The evidence that the cold climate kills the germs that eat the hair off at the root. Lieut. Perry, who went to the Arctic Regions, gives the same evidence. Newbro's Herpicide has the same effect as the cold climate. It kills the germ that eats the hair off at the roots, and the hair grows again. Herpicide is the first hair remedy built upon the principle of destroying the germ that eats the hair off. Its phenomenal sale demonstrates the correctness of the scalp germ theory. Sold by leading druggists. Send 10c in stamps for sample to The Herpicide Co., Detroit, Mich.

WILL WORK TO DEFEAT THE BILL

TEMPERANCE PEOPLE ARE NOT PLEASSED WITH COUNTY OPTION MEASURE IS A STRONG ONE

Local Option by Counties Is the Demand—But Bill Has Lost Friends.

Janesville temperance people are interested in the Stevens bill now before the assembly at Madison, providing for local option by counties, and it is causing great activity among the temperance people of the state which will begin in Janesville in a few days. The lawmakers at Madison are expecting thousands of petitions and Rock county will send her full share.

The bill is peculiar. One temperance man in Janesville yesterday admitted that it contained inconsistencies and these may cause its defeat in the legislature. The title is as follows: "A bill to enable the electors of any county in this state to determine by ballot whether license shall be granted for the sale of liquors." But there are inequalities in the measure. The meat of the bill is in section 2, the balance of the measure describing the mode of election, the penalties for violation, etc. Section 2 reads as follows:

"Section 2. If a majority of the votes cast at such election, in such county, upon the question so submitted, be 'against license,' then it shall be unlawful for any town or village board or city council to grant or issue any license in any of the towns, villages or cities in such county; and it shall be unlawful for any person to vend, sell, deal or traffic in liquors; malt, or intoxicating liquors or drinks as a beverage in any quantity whatever within such county so voting against license. And it is hereby further provided, that if a majority of the votes cast at such election be 'not against license,' but majority of votes in any town, village or city so voting at such election be 'against license,' then it shall be unlawful for the town board of such town, the village board of such village, or the city council of such city, wherein a majority of the votes are 'against license,' to grant any license, and it shall be unlawful for any person to vend, sell, deal or traffic in spirituous, malt, or intoxicating liquors or drinks as a beverage in any town, village or city so voting 'against license.' And any license granted or issued in any town, village or city contrary to the provision of this act, shall be void, and of no effect."

A Strong One. It will be seen at once that the bill is by far the strongest that has been introduced in the Wisconsin legislature in some time. By its provisions, even if "no license" fails of a majority in the entire county, those parts in which the temperance vote prevails, shall have "no license," but on the other hand if "no license" should have a majority in the entire county, no part or section of the county can secure license even if the vote of that section favors license. It is this provision of the bill that does not seem to meet with favor at Madison and dispatches indicate that it will be defeated.

Locally Applied To apply this measure locally it would mean that if Rock county should vote "against license" and Janesville's part of that vote should be "for license" by a majority, this city would be dry until the entire county should vote otherwise. On the other hand, if the "against license" should be defeated by the county at large and Janesville should cast a majority favoring no license while the balance of the county would be "wet."

Dispatches from Madison say that a straight county proposition—either all wet or all dry—would likely carry as it would merely be submitting the question to the voters.

WAS MURDERED BY FELLOW THESPIAN

Member of Williams & Walker Company Alleged to Have Killed Richard Connors, Who Played Here.

Isaac Livers, a member of the Williams & Walker theatrical company, which presented "In Dahomey" at the Myers Grand, October 14, 1904, has been arrested in New York on a warrant charging him with the murder of Richard Connors, another member of the troupe. Connors, the victim, played in the role of "Leather the Bootblack," while the company was here and though Livers' name does not appear on the program of that attraction he was undoubtedly a member of the chorus, the personnel of which was not printed. Connors sang several songs and his part in the production was a prominent one. The death of Connors, it is alleged, resulted from a fight on the stage while the company was showing at the Bijou theatre in Minneapolis a short time ago. Requisition papers on the governor of New York for the return of Livers were issued from the office of Governor Johnson of Minnesota, and Deputy Sheriff George Loth started at once after the man. The case is to come before the grand jury within two or three days, and Livers will be asked to testify in regard to the ante-mortem statement made by Connors on his deathbed, at the Minneapolis city hospital, a few days after the company left that city.

The House of Hawley. Elmore Elliott Peake, a former resident of Janesville, has written one of the most talked of books of the year, "The House of Hawley." Mr. Peake is also the author of the "Pride of Tellair," but his new work far surpasses his former efforts. Mr. Peake dedicates his volume to his father, Rev. Peake, who for many years was the Methodist pastor here. His story is laid in the Egypt of Illinois. It is not a plain homely little tale one would expect from this region but one full of interesting characters who act and do things as one would expect in real life. Major Ellis Hawley, the principal character in the book is a type of southern emigrating to the north in the anti-bellum days who still retains his southern characteristics. Christine Hawley, his granddaughter, is that of a favorite child who really holds the center of the stage during the whole story. Norman Colfax who marries Christine against the wishes of her grandfather, is a republican, a bitter enemy of the Major, a life-long democrat. There are many other interesting members of the patriarchal family of sons, daughters, and grandchildren. Then there is the negro colony, "Old Sherman," the Major's body servant during the war.

The plot is a simple one. Christine and Colfax fall in love. The Major does not like Colfax, and tells Christine she must choose between grandfather and lover. Christine chooses, as a loving woman usually chooses, and runs away to marry. The Major disowns her. The proud old man is heartbroken, but his pride refuses to yield until Christine lies apparently dying when a new great-grandson is born into the world. Then even the fierce old Major bows his head, and grandfather and granddaughter are reconciled.

This homely little plot, as old as the hills, is enlivened by various incidents, such as the birthday feast of the old Major, when 152 Hawleys by birth and marriage sat at the long tables under the trees; the burglary of the Hermitage by Old Sherman's wicked son; his attack on Christine with the butt of a revolver, his capture by bloodhounds, and the attempt to lynch him; an electioneering trip of republicans among the negroes; a negro dance, a lawsuit between two poor whites, and others that shed an illuminating light upon the life and the people of that part of Egypt.

The master of the Hermitage is the dominating character of the story and the Hermitage itself is scarcely less interesting. The estate was big and the old house, the Major's home for over half a century, had twenty-six rooms. It had a two-story veranda, with square brick pillars, around three sides. In summer this veranda was always furnished with rugs, tables, and chairs, books, papers, and bowls of fruit, and hung with hammocks. Here, in the sultry dog days of southern Illinois, the family practically lived—worked and ate and not infrequently slept. Here, when the house was full of guests, they danced on moonlight nights.

"The House of Hawley" is a good novel. It is not a great novel—but there are few great novels nowadays. At any rate, it is a readable story, full of interesting characters. It is well written, true to the life it portrays, and thoroughly worth while. Mr. Peake is to be congratulated upon the success of his careful study of an interesting part of the great commonwealth of Illinois. (New York: D. Appleton & Co.)

News for the Railroad Men.

Railway Melange Japan has ordered 102 locomotives in this country, one concern supplying 77 for a round $1,000,000. An American car works is now filling orders from Zanzibar, Cape Colony, Portugal and Bolivia. The American idea in railways is pervading the world.

The villages which have come into existence or places which will be villages as a result of the new I. & M. railroad in northern Illinois are, Troxel, which is named after the chief engineer, and Harris, which is named after the traffic manager of the road. Harris is expected to be one of the important stations on the line. It is eleven miles south of Rockford and is the center of a grain territory. The railroad company intends to sponsor the building of an elevator and store and see that the town is given a good boost.

There are 1,200,000 employees on the pay-rolls of the railroads operating in the United States. The largest number, probably, employed by any one system is 152,000, which number draw their pay envelopes from the Pennsylvania lines.

Work has been begun on the section of the new railroad between Owen and Ladysmith, a distance of forty-five miles, and it is expected that regular construction force will be put on in a few weeks.

Travel to the southwest and west is unusually heavy just at present and many people from Wisconsin are now leaving, or have left, for points on the coast, in Arizona, Texas, Oklahoma, and extreme southwestern sections.

An Old Engineer

G. W. Dutton, the well known former North-Western engineer, comes in for the following interesting mention in the Marshalltown Times-Republican:

Engineer G. W. Dutton of Clinton, ran the first North-Western train into Boone, in May, 1865, when there were but two houses in what is now the city of Boone. Thirty-nine years ago today Mr. Dutton was pulling a freight train west. When at a point two or three miles east of State Center his engine blew up and he was terribly injured. His fireman, John Young, of Cedar Rapids, was instantly killed, and Oscar Martin of De Witt, head brakeman, who was on the engine at the same time, sustained a broken collar-bone and other injuries. Mr. Dutton sustained a fractured skull. His face, neck and arms were scalded, and his left arm was injured at the elbow so that his arm is crippled today. He was as near dead as could be and still alive, and was brought to this city. He lay in bed four weeks in a little hotel near the depot, before he was able even to sit up in bed. It was three years before Mr. Dutton was again able to take his engine and he was in active service until five years ago, when he was placed on the pension list. Mr. Dutton is now 69 years of age. He served in Company E, Fifth Wisconsin infantry, during the civil war—Clinton Herald.

NEWS FOR THE PLAY-GOERS

In that laughable comic opera The Beggar Prince perhaps the most interesting characters are The Beggar Prince, "The Man of Misfortune," his Grand Chamberlain Rocco and Betty who also has trouble of her own in the shape of a lover whom the Beggar Prince cordially hates. With the aid of Rocco he succeeds in separating the two and Betty thinking her lover has deserted her finally promised to become the wife of The Beggar Prince who has long been scheming for her hand. Rocco however has the same end in view and succeeds in making havoc for all concerned. Misunderstanding and complications follow in delightful fashion. One could not have the heart to see the mercurial characters in this entertaining play come to a sad ending so the finale rounds out to as pleasing and delicious a comic opera as one could desire. Supplemented with catchy musical numbers, glorious costumes and elegant scenery. The Beggar Prince will appear at the Myers Grand on Saturday, March 11, matinee and night.

...Forty Years Ago...

Janesville Daily Gazette, Thursday, March 9, 1865.—Concert Last Night.—Notwithstanding the very inclement weather last evening, Mr. Bennett's singing class gave an excellent concert to a good house. Some of the pieces were sung charmingly and rapturously applauded.

The Campbelllogians.—This band of minstrels gave an entertainment at Lippin's Hall last evening. We observe that the company is spoken highly of wherever it has performed. They have two full bands—one brass and the other of stringed and other instruments. We presume they will be generously patronized.

Off the Track.—The "Mail Passenger" on the Chicago & Northwestern Railway, which is due here at 4 p. m., run over a broken rail yesterday, two miles north of Fort Atkinson. Four passenger cars were thrown off the track and the train was delayed two hours in consequence. No person injured.

Little Girl Killed at Ft. Atkinson.—We learn that a little girl was killed at Fort Atkinson, Tuesday evening.

by the cars. She was on the train with her mother who had two children with her, and the little one in attempting to step from the cars, fell between them and was run over to death, the cars being in motion at the time the accident occurred.

Third Assembly District.—The electors of the Third Assembly District are requested to meet in convention by their usual number of delegates at the Emerald Grove House at Emerald Grove on Saturday, the 15th inst., at 2 p. m., for the purpose of electing two delegates to attend the judicial convention to be held at Elkhorn on the 17th inst. BY ORDER OF COMMITTEE.

Laying it on Rather Thick.—We have been receiving many complaints of late for the Gazette, but the following from a Green County man lays it on pretty thick. He says: "Here are two dollars; please send me your paper and receipt. I can't do without your paper for my hens won't go to roost; nor can my wife sleep nights, and the geese have refused to drink water; all on account of the fear that your paper won't come Thursday."

A SYNDICATE SILK MODEL. The vogue of the silk-cloth shows no signs of decrease with the coming of the new season. Rather does their degree of modishness grow; and some very smart models are being put forth for spring and early summer wear. The extreme of fashionable fineness is exemplified in the syndicate model illustrated, which is constructed in two parts, cleverly joined at the waist line. The blouse part is cut out at the neck and is filled slightly into the belt. The fashionable cape-shape collar and the sleeve itself has the fullness below the elbow shirred and placed in the cuff. The skirt is applied to the blouse with many rows of shirring, the joining being cleverly concealed in these; and a handsome cord girdle is loosely knotted around the waist, the long tasseled ends hanging half-way to the hem.

WHY MARCH IS THE MOST DANGEROUS MONTH

March is the most dangerous month of the year because the change of season is more than a good many systems can stand. Too often it is true that the sick "last only till spring." But, if the system is fortified, if the impurities are driven from the blood, and the nerve tissues fed with wholesome and strengthening food medicine, there is no danger in the change of seasons.

Father John's Medicine is invaluable as a tonic in the spring. It strengthens the system and drives out the poisonous waste matter—builds up the body. It is this power that has made it so successful in curing colds and all throat and lung troubles. No weakening stimulants, morphine or other dangerous drugs.

HOW FATHER JOHN'S MEDICINE CURES THE AFTER EFFECT OF GRIP

Grip frequently follows a cold, where the system has been weakened by poisonous drugs. It affects the breathing apparatus, produces extreme weariness, and often a nervous depression. In many cases the nerves are shattered, and the patient does not seem to get well, even after the acute attack has passed.

Father John's Medicine cures the grip in the only way it can be cured—by driving the impurities out of the system and making strength to build up the body. The getting well stage of the grip is particularly dangerous. This medicine will build you up and prevent a relapse. Begin taking it today. It will renew your strength.

PRESIDENT AND CZAR.

The word "people" occurs five times in President Roosevelt's inaugural address. It is in good company. Its companions are such words and phrases as "intelligence," "courage," "hardihood," "endurance," "splendid heritage," "wealth," "energy," "self-reliance," "happiness," "material well being," "power," "greatness"—all descriptive of our magnificent position as a nation—and such other words and phrases as "free government," "peace," "justice," "generosity," "righteousness," "faith," "devotion to a lofty ideal"—all of which are descriptive of the high motives and aims of our people.

Contrast President Roosevelt's address with the two manifestos issued by the Czar of Russia on Friday. The president speaks of "we," "the people." The Czar says "in my own name." The president's theme is self-government. The Czar says, "I order you." He talks of "the consolidation of the autocracy" and of "the servants of the throne," "of the autocratic right of the emperors."

This is a contrast that ought to make our national faith and patriotism deeper and stronger. Napoleon's prediction was that the world would be "all Cossacks or all free." A century has passed since that prediction was made. In that time has Cossack or freedom made the greatest progress? Which is stronger: the despotism of Russia or the republicanism of the United States? Whose words make the deeper impression upon the world: the czar's or the president's? The latest clasp of absolutism in Europe is Russia, and even now its power is wavering in the balance. Its army and navy have gone down before the courage and enterprise of the despotic people of Japan, who have founded their government on the basis of freedom.

The czar, defeated abroad and menaced by revolution at home, at last, trembling, offers to his country the promise of a legislative assembly. The one word which shines out in the czar's last manifesto is the word "people." It occurs only once, and seems out of place in that lordly assemblage of "autocracy," "throne," and "might." But that it is there at all is one of the most significant things which has occurred in the twentieth century. It means the dawn of liberty for Russia. The world is becoming "all free."

But let us not deceive ourselves. Free government may not be firmly, permanently established. Its future depends on the people of the United States, more than on the czar of Russia. It is here that the great experiment is being tried. What does Roosevelt say in his inaugural address: "The vast and formidable experiment of administering the affairs of government under the forms of a democratic republic," and "if we fail the cause of self-government throughout the world will rock to its foundations." Those are his words.

Fail? How can it be possible in this 129th year of the declaration of independence? Not this year certainly, but the seeds of failure may be sown now, and those seeds consist of unequal administration and contempt of the law, the passion for wealth however acquired, by corruption or oppression, the growth of violence, and graft, and the indifference of the citizen to his duties.

Recent government reports show that 1,000,000 pounds of coffee are consumed in this country annually, to say nothing of the substance served under that name in some restaurants.

Perhaps the house might have got that $100,000 mileage grab after all if it had not wasted so much time attacking Judge Swaine for charging $10 a day for expenses.

If the American hen wishes to demonstrate that her repentance is sincere she will proceed to work overtime for a while.

John L. was having a fine ride on the water wagon a few weeks ago, but as usual it turns out that he had a transfer ticket.

Everything considered, the head of the government weather bureau feels that his job ought to be good for four years at least.

Vice-President Fairbanks has a great opportunity to work up a good muscular arm in suppressing queer legislation with his gavel.

As yet the czar has no idea how big a reform that "advisory council" may prove to be after it has once begun "advising" in good earnest.

Mr. Fairbanks wishes the public to notice that the vice-presidency is a tight fit.

Those New York doctors, who are professing much excitement at having discovered a resident who has no brains are to be praised for their civic pride, anyhow.

Considering that the bunch of generals opposing him include Oyama, Kuroki, Oku and Negi, Kuropatkin is doing as well as could have been expected.

However, the beef trust need not step down from the witness stand just yet. There are a lot of questions which Mr. Moody would like to ask.

Kuropatkin sees now that he should have taken a through ticket to Tieling in the first place and not asked for stopover privileges at Mukden.

While the house did not profit by its mileage grab, it can at least feel that the sincerity of its effort to graft has been generally recognized.

Russia is to pay British claims for the North sea boulder, but not so speedily that it will get the benefit of the discount.

Through some strange oversight no college professor has taken a fall out of the wicked bachelors for a whole week.

Probably the beef trust would rest easier if it felt certain that Commissioner Garfield had told all he knows about it.

Just at this juncture Kuropatkin is having difficulty in telling which part of his army is front and which is rear.

Meantime there is nothing in the situation that tends to make real estate values in Vladivostok any more stable.

Gen. Miles' part in the fierce war with Mrs. Jefferson Davis has now taken on the character of a rear-guard action.

An "advisory council" is a poor substitute for a legislature, but the czar certainly needs one if anybody does.

Kuropatkin has discovered that even retreating is a difficult proposition when the Japanese are looking.

Japanese dealers in fireworks must be living in a wonderful state of hope.

Washington is still delighted, but a little shy on sleep.

PRESS COMMENT.

Wausau Central Wisconsin: "Too busy to attend" should be tacked on to Senator La Follette's chair in the United States senate.

Marquette Eagle-Star: Ella Wheeler Wilcox advises against hugging demons. Advice of that sort isn't necessary hereabouts.

Sheboygan Journal: All that Marinette needs to complete a real fairy story is a Little Red Riding Hood. The wolf is already there.

Menasha Record: Now the fishermen are kicking about the early winter break-up, but, thank goodness, they are a hopeless minority.

Neenah Times: After reading Garfield's whitewashing report, the sympathetic people contemplate getting up a purse to compensate the poor beef trust for their losses.

Atchison Globe: An Atchison woman went to her first Dutch lunch recently and she drank a glass of beer and flirted violently the entire evening, with her own husband.

Milwaukee Sentinel: King Alfonso ran his automobile into a Madrid street car and the motorman of the car was arrested. There are still certain divine rights the Spanish people appear to respect.

Rockford Register-Gazette: In Persia every corrupt official is put to death by being boiled in oil. Mr. Rockefeller would probably be willing to have the plan adopted in this country, for he has the oil for sale.

Chicago Record-Herald: A machine for grinding corn has been set up on the site of Napoleon's former grave on the island of St. Helena. We might be inclined to feel indignant over this if it were not for the probability that the corn grinder was shipped across from America.

Fond du Lac Commonwealth: The people of Fond du Lac are called on this week to entertain the delegates to the Young Men's Christian Association convention—expected to be about 400 in number. It is a good time to show hospitality and the real spirit of Christianity.

Racine Journal: It is being admitted by many men and also by some women that woman's suffrage has generally enjoyed in four states, has not purified politics. It is positively assured it has not in Colorado. Still what has this to do with the element of right in the matter?

Exchange: Booker T. Washington gave a lecture to the colored people of New Rochelle, N. Y., Sunday night on "The Successful Training of the Negro," in which, among other things, he advised his hearers to "eschew cheap jewelry, quit taking $5 buggy rides on a $6 per week salary, and not to put a $5 hat on a 5 cent head."

Oshkosh Northwestern: Fad doctors in New York have issued a fulmination to the effect that the pernicious habit of letting children run two or three pounds of books to and from school is likely to cause curvature of the spine. It is really too bad about the kids, and it is singular, too. A boy can lug a ten-pound shot gun all over the country and never bat an eye, but a parcel of school books always burden his growing bones.

Whitewater Register: How badly the spirits of Madison, Hamilton and other fathers of the constitution, would feel could they be informed that a little paper at Elkhorn, Wis., openly declares that their work is superannuated. And possibly it might be more than some of the living veterans of that body, who are still among the most reverend of the nation's public men could endure if the cruel tale should be told to them. Let us hope that they may be mercifully spared.

Green Bay Gazette: A resolution has been introduced in the state senate asking the governor for his source of information regarding freight rates of Wisconsin in comparison with other states. The legislators claim to be unable to find authority for his statements and seek enlightenment. This the governor should not hesitate to give them. The bill is based on his assertions to a great extent and the members of both houses should be in possession of all these facts in order that they may act intelligently in this matter of importance.

La Crosse Chronicle: Green Bay has a mayor who bids fair to make a record to remember. He is warning the poker for a raid on gamblers and wrongdoers generally, and declares that so long as he is mayor of Green Bay shall have none of those classes on duty in her midst. He is as emphatic as the governor of the Hoosier state in saying that no drinker shall get an office at his hands. Every man and then glance at the mayor and governor in question. Both have a bad, stony, spiky piece of road ahead of them.

Chicago Chronicle: "What, then, do you think of the state of literature today?" was a question recently asked Thomas Hardy by a London interviewer, to whom he replied: "The fatal defect of most of it is the absence of a philosophic standpoint and what lacks that can neither be of the highest quality nor enduring. Descriptions of life, however brilliant or varied, are not sufficient; some reasoned comment on life as a whole, some sustained criticism—the outcome of modern knowledge—on the relations of man to the universe, both now and in the past, are essential in literature, and these we now look for largely in vain."

Superior Telegram: It has been truly said that Asia lies dreaming in the prison of her castes and creeds. The artificial distinctions that are built up in society, based on no rule of real worth, real principle and real intelligence and culture, are a hindrance to progress, and build up a prison wall that confine in dungeons of ancient folly and pretense its millions of victims. The fiction of caste is what binds China to the veil and nonprogressive traditions of the past, and even in the most progressive nations of Europe the fiction cannot be wholly obliterated.

RACINE GOLF CLUB WOULD PRESENT AN AMATEUR PLAY

Dramatic Club Offers to Present Pinero's "Sweet Lavender"—Date Not Arranged.

Secretary J. P. Baker of the Mississippi Golf club received a communication from the dramatic club of the Racine Golf association, offering to present Pinero's play "Sweet Lavender" here as a benefit for the local club. All they asked was that expenses be paid. The date desired was this coming Friday evening and the notice was deemed too short to take advantage of the offer. Some arrangement may be made in the future. In Racine recently the club cleared several hundred dollars with this presentation.

ESCAPES CELL BY DROWNING

Chicken Thief Pursued by Officers Takes His Own Life.

Vicksburg, Miss., March 8.—Rather than submit to arrest on a charge of stealing chickens, John Dolan, colored, drowned himself in the canal in front of this city Wednesday. When Dolan saw that the officers were overhauling him, he stepped into the canal, holding his hands above his head, and waded out into midstream where he was caught by the current and swept away. A similar case occurred the night before, when an unknown negro, apparently demented, jumped into a cistern to escape pursuit of police officers and was drowned.

WOMAN LOSES $7,000 IN STREET

Jumps to Escape Being Struck by Auto and Drops Money.

St. Louis, Mo., March 9.—A package of currency amounting to $7,000 was lost on the street today in the downtown district by Mrs. L. C. Bohle had taken the money, wrapped in a newspaper, from a safety deposit vault to use in a business transaction. In crossing a street she jumped from the pathway of a speeding automobile and soon after missed her money. Detectives were immediately employed to institute a search.

POLICE LOOKING FOR JOHN NASH

Who Figured in Lamp-Throwing Episode on Gold Street Last Evening.

About nine o'clock last evening the fire department was called to the Nash residence on Gold street. Upon their arrival there it was discovered that the stairway leading to the second story where the seat of the trouble apparently lay was choked with furniture, and someone up at the head—was filling the air with chairs and other missiles in a manner anything but playful. John Nash was thoroughly provoked with his brother and to show him just how he felt had thrown a lighted lamp at him. When the glass broke upon the door the flames communicated directly to the oil and soon the bed in one corner of the room was blazing at a merry rate. The brother, Thomas, ran out and turned in an alarm, then returned to renew the hostilities. The scene now shifted to the yard and John proceeded to hurl a lighted lantern just as the firemen, after subduing the flames with chemicals, were moving away. They returned and bundled Thomas into the wagon and took him to the lock-up where he was delivered over to Chief Constable. John has not yet been apprehended, but a warrant is out for his arrest.

WILLIAM SICKLER SCATTERED HOST

Beloit Man Single-Handed Threshed Five Men in Local Saloon Last Night.

William Sickler of Beloit visited an east side saloon last evening and when an altercation arose among some of the guests freely took a hand. After he had laid out two McDermotts and three McGrains he decided to take quick leave and did so, leaving his coat and hat for a subsequent call. In the second call which followed immediately after the first, Barclay Fanning received a blow in the nose, alleged to have been struck by one of the McGrains, and soon presented a bloody spectacle that sent onlookers looking for the police. Mr. Fanning appeared in court and paid a fine of $4 this morning and a lookout is being kept for Mr. Sickler, in case he dares to honor our city with another visit.

UNIONISTS SHOULD GO INTO POLITICS

Affirmative Side in Debate in Trades Council, Upholding That Doctrine, Won.

In the debate in the Trades Council last evening the decision was in favor of the affirmative. The question was: "Resolved, That union men should go into politics." Maurice Mortimer presented the affirmative arguments and C. W. Forrest the negative. The next debate will be held at the next meeting, March 22. The question is: "Resolved, That high tariff is a protection to the working classes." E. Hilton is on the affirmative side and F. Smith on the negative.

Senator Whitehead Wants Boys of Rock County Attending State University to Unite.

There is a move on foot among a number of the young men of Rock county who are attending the state university to organize an association. The society was suggested by John M. Whitehead and though no active steps have been taken the club may be perfected. Mr. Whitehead has spoken to a number of Janesville young men about the project.

THOMAS W. LAWSON

Thomas W. Lawson, whose fight with Standard Oil financiers has attracted national attention, has in his magazine expositions of what he terms "frenzied finance" made some most picturesque contributions to current literature. Recently brokers in Wall street and other financial marts held their breath during the struggle between Lawson and his stock market foes over Amalgamated Copper stock.

People are puzzled to know how to take Lawson, but nobody denies his fearlessness and his brilliancy. He has a wonderful gift for making money, and it apparently troubles him little to lose it. He went into a bank at twelve and by the time he was seven-ty had cleaned up $17,000. In personal appearance Mr. Lawson, now forty-five years of age, is tall and handsome, in the prime of his physical and mental energies.

STATE CLOSES CHADWICK CASE

Damaging Evidence Against Defendant in Drafts Aggregating $87,000.

Cleveland, Ohio, March 9.—After presenting its most important evidence against Mrs. Chadwick the government yesterday afternoon closed its case against the woman.

The most important point yet made by the state was gained when District Attorney Sullivan secured the admission as evidence of two drafts aggregating $80,000 issued by the Oberlin bank in favor of Mrs. Chadwick on Aug. 24, 1903. On the same date Mrs. Chadwick obtained from the bank a certified check for $12,500, and Receiver Lyon testified there was nothing on the books of the bank to show that Mrs. Chadwick then had a cent of money in the bank or was entitled to credit.

BURGLAR SCARE FOR EVANSVILLE*BANKERS GOT WORD THAT SAFE-
BLOWERS WERE ABROAD.*WHOLE TOWN ON GUARD*Last Evening to Prevent Criminals
From Sacking Treasures—
Sheriff Denies Knowledge.

There was excitement in Evansville last evening. Marshal Cal Broughton visited the officers of the Grange bank and the Bank of Evansville and told them, so went the report, that he had received word from Sheriff Cochrane that a gang of safe-blowers were at large in that vicinity and that it would be well to keep a sharp watch for them.

Everybody on Lookout
The report spread like wildfire and knots of citizens were soon discussing the matter in all corners of the town. Had anyone made an attempt on the banks it is probable that at least a third of the population would have pounced on him before he could get a window loose.

Bank President Talks
President T. C. Richardson of the Grange bank when interviewed over the telephone this morning said: "Yes, the police got word from Sheriff Cochrane that there were safe-blowers in the vicinity, but we did not hear the source of their information. No, we did not understand that a man had been picked up in Janesville who informed the sheriff that an attempt was to be made on our bank last night."

Report Denied Here
When Sheriff Wallace Cochrane was questioned he denied knowing anything at all about the matter or of communicating with Officer Broughton with regard thereto. The Janesville police gave it as their opinion that the report was propounded. No one had heard of any safe-blowers herabouts. There is something very queer about the whole matter.

HELPED HIMSELF TO REGISTERED MAIL*Man in Milwaukee House of Correction Confesses to Stealing $500
From Paula Edwardes.

Frank Lambert, serving a ninety day sentence in the Milwaukee House of Correction for threatening a woman with a revolver is to be transferred to Philadelphia to answer to the charge of opening two pieces of registered mail, one containing a gold watch and the other a letter addressed to Miss Paula Edwardes who appeared in Janesville last evening, containing a check for $500. Lambert confessed that while a member of a theatrical troupe playing at Reading, Pennsylvania he called at the post-office to get the mail for his company and received the letter and packet in question by mistake. He appropriated both watch and money. The man was impelled to get even with the woman who complained against him on the charge for which he is now serving sentence, she being also implicated in the Reading, Pennsylvania affair. When inquiries were made at Reading the authorities could not corroborate the confession but as soon as Miss Edwardes was communicated with it was found that she was missing the check described.

PREPARING FOR MEDAL CONTEST*High School Students Doing Different Kinds of Rhetorical Work—
Other Competitions.

Rhetorical work is now being done by the scholars of the high school in preparation for the annual medal contest. Extemporaneous speeches are given each Friday. This work was commenced five weeks ago and will continue for four more weeks. The seniors and juniors who formerly were compelled to write orations do not have to this year, and those wishing to do so for the practice or to try for a place in the medal competition are now writing orations. The stilted and declamatory lights in the two lower classes is going on and probably before the end of this month the interclass declamatory contest will be held. The speakers to represent the different classes in the interclass declamatory competition and also the interclass extemporaneous contest are chosen by class or interdivision contests, which will be held in the near future. If there are any poets writing verses in hope of winning the medal it is not known. The poems are composed and handed to the judges without the name of the author and the winner of the trophy and the one given honorable mention are the only persons whose names are made public. The annual medal contest will doubtless be held about the middle of next month.

Other Contests.
The declaimers who succeeded in getting first and second place in this competition will represent the school in the league contest to be held about the last of April and also in the district contest which comes about the middle of May. The local school is in the Whitewater district and the two given highest places in this contest will represent the district in the state contest at Madison about the end of May.

M'VICAR BROS. TO TEAR-DOWN AND REBUILD BLOCK

Three-story Building Will Be Erected on Site of Newly Acquired South Main Street Property.
Instead of remodeling the recently acquired building at 23 South Main street, M'Vicar Bros. have decided to tear it down and erect a fine structure in its place. Plans are being prepared by Architect Hilton calling for a three-story building with a store, roomy basement, and flats.

PRETTY WEDDING WAS CELEBRATED*Miss Cowan Wedded to Frank Ores-chench by Rev. Tippet
Last Night.

Last evening at 7:30 at the home of Mr. and Mrs. John Masterson, 4 Dickson street, occurred the marriage of Miss Minnie Frances Cowan to Frank Oreschench of Kottleben, Germany. The ceremony was performed by Rev. J. H. Tippet in the presence of a few friends. The bride was beautifully dressed in white silk. After congratulations had been extended to the happy couple, a bountiful supper was served. Mr. Oreschench is recently from Germany and is an expert in the sugar beet works. They left last night for an extended wedding trip, after which they will make their home in Chicago.

FORMER JANESVILLE MAN AT ANN ARBOR*Rev. Behan, Who Spent Boyhood in Bower City, Called To Take Up Work Among Students.

Rev. Warren Palmer Behan, Ph.D., who spent a portion of his boyhood in Janesville and who of recent years has been pastor of the Avenue Baptist church in Grand Rapids, Mich., has been called to Ann Arbor, Mich., to take charge of the University of Michigan, conducted by the Baptist guild. Rev. Behan was married to Miss Marie Gertrude Wright of Chicago in 1899 and has a family of three children.

BUT THREE MORE
GAMES THIS YEAR*Gasketball Season Is Nearing End—High School Schedule Is Arranged.

With the advent of spring and the prospect of weather warm enough to make indulgence in all out door sports possible and agreeable, the basketball season will end. But three games more will be played by the high school five which thus far has played ten games, a schedule of thirteen having been arranged. No contest is booked for this week, Friday night being occupied by the annual indoor track meet. Friday, the seventeenth, the five with coach and substitutes will go to Watertown to play the return game with the team which they badly defeated here during the middle of the season. The following night, Saturday, March 18, a game between the local aggregation and the five representing the Oconomowoc high school will be contested at Oconomowoc. The final game of the season will be played at Waukesha with the high school team.

TELLS OF GAME
WITH WHITE SOX*WHICH CLOSED BASEBALL SEAS-
ON OF 1876.*BATTERY WENT TO PIECES*Otherwise the Mutuals Might Have Administered Defeat to Rivals, Says Frank L. Smith.

We defeated the Clippers of Woodstock in this city on Sept. 22 by a score of 17 to 6, Smith pitching and Hayes, a new man from Chicago, catching—Leslie and Teit having retired from the nine. And then came the last game of this eventful season. The champion White Stockings of Chicago being our opponents on this occasion, the game taking place upon our grounds in this city on Friday, Sept. 29th. The day was about as bad as could have been selected for a ball game at that season of the year. It was cloudy, threatened rain and a cold raw wind chilled the players and blew the ball in every direction.

Edwards had convinced the management that he had something on the Chicago boys and was accordingly put in to pitch, with Hayes at the receiving end. His wiles had evidently got crossed, as at the end of the third inning they had accumulated twelve runs and he had made 8 wild pitches, with the other members of the nine backing him up in good shape. In fact the Mutuals fielded splendidly during the entire game except in the fourth inning when Smith went in to pitch, Edwards muffing a foul fly, Allen and Cantillon each being guilty of errors which assisted the Whites to four runs and they made but two more during the game. Hayes' catching was miserable, he put throwing bad, and Morrissey was put in the last two innings just to show the Chicagoans that we had a better home catcher than the outsiders. On account of their liking the Chicagoans did not play a great fielding game, and if the Mutuals had had a good battery during the entire game would have stood a very good show of winning, as the six home players batted and fielded in excellent form, earning three runs in the first inning. Doc made four base hits, one of them a two-baser, and put out eight men without an error, which is a pretty fair record for an amateur. Cantillon also batted hard but in tough luck. Allen played shortstop poorly, being afflicted with something akin to stage fright. It will be seen from the following score that the home players made all the base hits and but four errors. Hathaway and Edwards each made beautiful running catches.

And this closed the season of 1876, which under the circumstances was fairly successful. A first class battery would have helped us physically and financially, but this we were unable to secure in spite of our efforts. Players came here highly recommended and the mistake we made was in not dropping them at once, instead of assigning them to other positions that could have been better taken care of by home talent. In reviewing the season's events it occurs to the writer that he must have had some forgotten enjoyment to recompense him for the trials and tribulations endured—especially as he gave up two arranged trips to the Centennial in order to take part in games. This game centennial and the presidential election tended to decrease our attendance, but the stockholders seemed satisfied and decided to continue in the game for another year.

Next year a portion of the beets that will be made into sugar at the Rock County Sugar company's plant will be grown by the Boys' Experiment club of Rockford, according to the daily Republic from which the following is taken:
"Supt. Kern is in communication with a Janesville merchant who procures sugar beets for the sugar manufacturers, and hopes that this summer a market will be found for the sugar beets raised by the boys of the Boys' Experiment Club. This Janesville merchant says that he is willing to buy all that can be brought to him. Mr. Kern says that the boys of the club can make a tidy sum on the side besides the experience they secure from the work. One member of the club last year grew over two tons and this would have netted him a large profit."

O. J. Kern is superintendent of schools in Winnebago county, Illinois.

OLD BUILDING IS TO BE RESTORED*Wants Statehouse Ruin Restored—
Senator Charles H. Smith.

[SPECIAL TO THE GAZETTE.]
Madison, Wis.—The beautiful and expensive plan to build a new capitol for Wisconsin to cost some $8,000,000 seems doomed to defeat. Badger legislators are exhibiting a peculiarly economical tendency and art flocking to the bill drawn by Senator Charles H. Smith, to appropriate $500,000 for the repair, restoration and enlargement of the present old fire-damaged statehouse and the only change that is likely to be made in the bill, it seems, is to cut the figure down to $500,000. Mr. Smith comes from Green Lake county. He was the only democrat elected to the senate last November. Two years ago he served in the assembly.

LOCAL NEWS IN BRIEF.

Monthly Meeting: The monthly meeting of the Art league will be held at the high school Friday afternoon at 7 o'clock. Lecture by Prof. Wright at 4 o'clock will be on "Roman Sculpture."
Life Studies: At the Congregational church this evening will be given another of the studies in the life of Christ illustrated by pictures by Tissot and other artists, the object of which is to get closer to the real conditions and facts of Jesus' life. The subject for this evening is "The Growth of the Spirit in Christ."
Clothes-Line Raided: The clothes-line in the yard of A. Hasma, 112 Fifth avenue, was raided Monday evening, between 6:30 and 6:45 o'clock, and the weekly washing stolen.

Fraternal Order of Eagles: There will be a special meeting tonight of the Fraternal Order of Eagles at 8 p. m. All members are earnestly requested to be present, as matters of importance are to come up for action.
Cinch Club Met: Tuesday afternoon the Second Ward Cinch club were guests of Mrs. Frank Gentel at the last meeting to be held for some time to come. The prizes were won by Mrs. T. H. McCarthy and Mrs. Charles Kneff. A luncheon was served and a pleasant time enjoyed by all.

Went to Milwaukee: The "Winsome Winnie" theatrical troupe left this morning on the 8:20 train over the North-Western road for Milwaukee. The Fane Stock company, which has been using the Myers opera-house for practices since Monday, were in Beloit last evening on account of the performance of the "Winsome Winnie" company here.

Miss Pyre Also: In the cast of characters for the play "A Fool and His Money," in which Walton Pyre will take the leading role after the close of Miss Rohan's season, appears the name of Miss Henrietta Pyre, a sister of Walton Pyre. Miss Pyre is with Ada Behan now and was here when the company played in this city. She was a member of Mr. Pyre's company that was in the city last year.

Thank Sugar Company: At the beet growers' meeting at Milton Junction Tuesday it was decided to accept the concessions offered by the sugar companies. Another meeting will be held Monday, March 13, at 1:30 p. m. in the P. of H. hall at which farmers may sign contracts if they wish. A resolution was passed thanking the Rock County Sugar company for the concessions granted.

PAULA EDWARDES'
"WINSOME WINNIE"*Musical Comedy Pleased a Fair Sized
Audience at Myers Theatre
Last Evening.

Faint echoes of Victor Herbert's "The Serenade," the classic vehicle of the Bostonians, mingled with much inconsequential but mildly amusing nonsense in "Winsome Winnie," the musical comedy presented at the Myers theatre last evening. They could be detected in the opening chorus of the brigands in the second act and Pericles' songs, "The Good Old Day" and "The Maid and the Miller." William Wolff, the chief of the bandits, is a recruit from Barnabe & McDonald's company of the "splendid past." Without his "typical" presence, his chortling glee over the comic opera outrages perpetrated on his victims at the tavern, and the swing of his songs, it is not hard to imagine what the audience's final verdict on the musical comedy would be.

Paula Edwardes is, of course, the centre of attraction much of the time. She is pretty, self-confident, and active, wears many beautiful costumes and much fine jewelry including a conspicuous diamond thumb ring, and knows how to employ all the artful dodges of posture, facial expression and side-talk to gain the graces of the onlooker. Her intimate song to the first-row victims makes a great hit with the gallery. The lines she speaks are clever and by reason of this and other engaging qualities she is easily forgiven for not being a songbird.

As the impossible Dr. Taylor, a character that might be encountered on a dream journey after Welsh rarebit but never on earth, Edward Paulon grows tiresome in the first act but retrieves himself in the second. When, after being held up by unscrupulous inn-keepers for a long line of furniture and decorations "made to break," he offers the customary tribute for Marjorie Bell's broken heart, the laugh is well earned. Isabel Hall in the latter role was one of the most pleasing of the entertainers, possessing a voice of fine quality and a pleasing stage presence. Margaret Walker and Cecil James are two other members of the company with vocal powers which might be utilized to greater advantage. The former's duet with Fred Bishop, "I Love You Only," with subdued light and the glimmering sea in the background, was very well received, and their love scene just as the curtain went down for the last time was very realistic indeed and costumed. The choruses were good and in some instances, particularly the grand finale of the first act, excellent. There was a fair sized audience in attendance last evening and frequent encores were forthcoming.

Scooter Racing Is Popular

These Novel Ice-Water
Boats Afford Exciting
Contests --- Katsuguma
Higashi, Jiu Jitsu Expert---Inside Information
About World's Championship Ball Games.

Scooter racing has become very popular in various sections of the country, particularly in the east.

Scooters are peculiarly built craft, being nothing more or less than small sloop yachts, with runners nailed along their bottoms, enabling them to go through water or over ice with equal facility.

The scooter was invented two years ago by Long Island (New York) ice yachtsmen, and now owners of the novel craft can be counted by scores. The contests are invariably exciting, as even the slightest breeze is sufficient to give the light scooters considerable headway.

Louis S. Tuttle of Eastport, N. Y., won the ice scooter race for the East Bay championship held opposite Center Moriches, N. Y., recently. Notwithstanding the rough ice a new record was established for a triangular course of fifteen miles. Henry Rutland and Mr. Terry of Patchogue, N. Y., were second and third respectively. The winning scooter was the only one having a rudder, the others being steered by their jibs.

The victory, therefore, of Mr. Tuttle's boat is ascribed to the advantage de-gate receipts. It seems a little hard on the owners to take a position of that kind when all the circumstances are taken into consideration.

For example, suppose that the gate receipts of the first four games should amount to $25,000, which is a very small estimate if the weather should be favorable to the games being played.

Of that amount the national commission would be given 10 per cent—the sum of $2,500—which is to be used to purchase the world's championship pennant, pay the umpires, purchase the individual emblems for the members of the winning team—and they will be emblems worth having—and provide for such other expenses as may be found necessary to conduct the series with success.

Deducting $2,500 from the total receipts of $25,000 leaves the sum of $22,500. Of this amount 40 per cent goes to the players who take part in the games. This would amount to $9,000. Seventy-five per cent of the $9,000 would go to the winning team, a sum of $6,750, and 25 per cent would go to the losing team, a sum of $2,250.

After the sum of $9,000 is taken from the $22,500 there would be left $13,500 to be divided equally between the owners of the clubs competing, giving each owner $6,750.

It must be borne in mind, however, that while this series is being conducted the players are put to no expense whatever. The owners guarantee to maintain their salaries even if the games should extend beyond the contract period of the players and also must pay the ground rent and all incidental expenses necessary for the employees of the grounds, the advertising and the hundred and one little things which are part of the baseball owner's burden. The players will not be required to pay their traveling expenses—in fact, in every way will be cared for as if the regular championship season were being prolonged.

Therefore what each player receives is pure "volunt." If the clubs in the larger cities should happen to be the winners it is fair to presume that the gate receipts of the first four games would amount to thousands of dollars

Keogh vs. De Oro.

Another Match For Pool
Championship Is Soon to Occur.

Jerome Keogh of Buffalo is to play Champion Alfred De Oro again in a match contest for the pool championship.

Keogh has long been a formidable rival of De Oro and has backers aplenty.

Keogh, who is proprietor of a large billiard hall at Buffalo, refused to allow De Oro even expenses to come to that city to play the match. This made

JEROME KEOGH, POOL CHALLENGER.

De Oro angry, and as the naming of the place where the match shall be played is left to the holder of the emblem he has informed Keogh that he will play him in Havana.

Benson of St. Louis thinks that Keogh will only be too glad to play the match in St. Louis, as he will hardly care to go all the way to Cuba. De Oro is willing that the match be played in St. Louis, and Benson hopes to line both of the men up for the match.

Keogh, who competed in the last championship tournament. He is one of the most sensational players in the game, but is not as steady as De Oro. De Oro has defended his title successfully against Thomas (Kid) Huston and Grant Eby, ex-champion, since he won his title.

Aside from De Oro, Keogh and Eby are the leading pool players in the United States.

LEADING JIU JITSU TRICKS.

Maneuvers by Which the Japs Overcome Opponents.

The principal tricks of the jiu jitsu artist are as follows:

To paralyze an adversary's arm by pinning the muscles.

To ward off attack by a clinch over the shoulders.

To seize a man's throat in such a way the hold cannot be broken.

To throw an opponent clear over his head.

To throw a man by using his shoulder.

To knock a man out by striking his throat with the side of the wrist.

To disarm a man who draws a revolver.

To render a man helpless by the aid of his own coat.

To throw a man by taking hold of his hair.

To strike a man with both hands in the solar plexus.

To throw a man by merely gripping his hand.

To strike a fatal blow with the knee.

To twist an ankle until an adversary surrenders.

To use the elbow as a weapon.

To fall without being hurt.

To break a man's neck with practically no effort of strength.

To break an arm with the aid of the victim.

To dislocate a shoulder by almost the weight of a hand.

To make a heavy man's weight his undoing.

To make a prisoner of one stronger than himself.

To kill a man without leaving a mark.

ACCEPT CHESS CHALLENGE.

Oxford and Cambridge Will Play Our College Men.

Word was received at Columbia university recently to the effect that the Universities of Oxford and Cambridge have accepted the challenge for an intercollegiate chess match, to be played by cable.

Captain J. T. Collins of the Columbia team sent over the American challenge in December. According to present arrangements, six students will constitute the British team, and the same number will represent the colleges on this side of the Atlantic. Yale is to have one player on the American team, Harvard one, Princeton two and Columbia will also have two.

Professor Isaac Rice, one of the chess experts of the Manhattan Chess club of New York, has consented to defray all the expenses on the American side. He has also offered a beautiful trophy for the winning college.

The American universities will be represented by the following students: Columbia, G. W. Tucker, Jr.; J. T. Collins; Princeton, Stanley L. Nelson; Theodore C. Mowry; Harvard, P. W. Bridge-man; Yale, W. M. Woodbury.

BUSINESS AND PROFESSIONAL WOMEN BANQUET THURSDAY

Miss Amelia Boddy and Eli Kinsey
Married in Rockford—To Live in Viola, Wis.

Evansville, March 8.—A large crowd assembled on Tuesday evening at the Opera House to listen to the concert given by the Baker Military Band, composed of thirty-five pieces. The audience was more than pleased with the improvement the band has made in the past few months. The concert closed at nine o'clock and was followed by a dance at which Leaver's orchestra of Bedon furnished the music. The boys took in about a hundred dollars and after expenses are paid a neat sum will be left the band.

Mr. Eli Kinsey and Miss Amelia Boddy of this city were married in Rockford, Ill., Monday. Both young people are well and favorably known in this city, the groom having been a clerk in the grocery department of the Grange Store, which position he recently resigned. They will soon leave for Viola, Wis., where the groom will engage in farming.

Mr. and Mrs. B. M. Johnson and family spent Tuesday in Brooklyn, helping Mr. H. B. Starkweather, Mrs. Johnson's father, to celebrate his 80th birthday.

Harry Kingdom of Madison has been spending the past week with relatives and friends in this city.

Miss S. L. Copeland is in Chicago learning the latest styles in spring millinery.

Mr. Henry Asmus, has purchased the grocery stock of Mr. Guy Patterson. Possession to be given at once.

Miss Sadie Slightham, who has been visiting at the home of P. S. Wilder, has returned to Readsburg.

Rev. S. A. Wilson expects to take his departure about May 1 for a three months tour in Europe.

The National Flower will be given under the auspices of the Ladies' Aid Society of the M. E. church, March 10 and 11.

Rev. Dams and family have returned from a visit with relatives at Richmond Center.

Mary Silver of Albany is visiting at the home of John Bly.

Miss Nellie Hawley returned Wednesday to her home in Argyle after several days' visit with or aunt, Mrs. D. M. S. Hawley.

The business and professional women of this city will hold a banquet at the Central House Thursday evening, March 16.

W. H. H. Johnson of Union shipped several carloads of fine stock to the Chicago market today.

Mr. and Mrs. J. H. Brand have gone to Florida to spend a few weeks at Miami resort. Mr. Brand has been managing the Brand & Co.'s warehouse.

EAST PORTER.

East Porter, March 7.—If Hick's weather predictions for March are to be fulfilled and they seem to be so far, we think when we do get good weather and good roads we will know how to appreciate them.

Mr. Edward Jensen and Mr. Chas. Nelson sold their 1904 crop of tobacco to Decker and Bullard of Janesville for 7 1/2 cents in the bundle last week.

The Christian Endeavor social which was to have been held at Mr. Wm. Post's last Friday night was postponed on account of bad roads.

Mrs. Harry Boothroyd at last reports was not so well and is still under the doctor's care. Her father and mother from Janesville are with her at present.

We feel that a word of commendation and appreciation is due our mail carrier, Mr. Willis Collins for his faithful efforts in trying to reach the people with the mail through all the uncommonly bad weather and roads which we have had this winter and spring. He has not missed delivering the mail more than two or three times and oftentimes had to cover a good part of his route by lanternlight.

Mr. Harry Greene is able to be out again which we are glad to note.

Mrs. Alfred Hubbell is not very well at present.

Mrs. Wylie of South Fulton is visiting at the home of her son, Mr. John Thomson.

Little Evan Sayre is staying with his aunt, Mrs. Dr. McManus for a while.

PORTER.

Porter, March 7.—A. Brown is about to move on the Copley farm, Fred Bonash on the W. Nichols farm, and Frank Bonash has moved on the N. A. Found farm.

G. Christian and family have moved nine miles south of Janesville.

GROWING UP

There's something the matter with the child—that fails to grow up. A child that grows up too much, however, without proper filling out of flesh, is almost as badly off. Nothing will help these pale, thin "weedy" children like Scott's Emulsion. It supplies the rounding out of flesh and the rich inward nourishment of blood and vital organs which insures rapid growth a healthy and uniform development.

PAPER TRUST RAISES PRICES

Paves the Way for an Advance by Closing Its Mills.

Appleton, Wis., March 9.—The paper trust is in need of more cash, and it is going to get it, even if it has to turn the screws on the consumer another notch. The twisting process is going to take the shape of the closing of all the trust's mills. The supply being cut off, of course, the user of paper will have to pay higher prices in a short market.

Higashi, Jiu Jitsu Expert.

Katsuguma Higashi is the greatest jiu jitsu expert now in this country, and he has started a school in New York, where Americans are introduced to the Japanese art of self defense.

Higashi it was who overpowered Ajax, the champion strong man of the New York police department. He more than the sum which has been offered for an example of the gate receipt division, and even if the clubs in the smaller cities should be successful in winning the pennant the chances are that there would be sufficient interest in all the surrounding country to send hundreds of spectators to see the games, whether they happened to be particularly interested in baseball or not.

As the programme has been arranged for the future each player, when he signs his contract, knows exactly where he stands on the world's championship series. There is an incentive for him to do his best in order that he may be in at the final. Whatever he receives, if he happens to be a member of a championship team, he knows to be a bonus for his good work, and he understands perfectly that he will be under no financial obligation to obtain it. A reward for good ball playing is what the new order of things means, and there will be very few players in the professional ranks of the national game who will not be anxious to share in the distribution of the financial plums.

It has been intimated that this new arrangement will put a premium on, rough playing, especially if the season should result in both leagues in an uncommonly close finish. This seems to be a rather pessimistic way of looking at the matter. If the season in both leagues should narrow down to something like the fight between the New York Americans and the Boston last year, which is very improbable, the incentive to be in the world's series will scarcely be any greater than that to win the championship. In other words, if a team feels that it can win the championship it would not change its style of play a bit whether there were a world's series or no world's series.

This has been repeatedly demonstrated in the past. With no world's series assured last year there is no question but the New York and Boston players were working at white heat in New York, and yet there was nothing in the game and in the conduct of the players but was entirely within the rules.

Many doubt whether such a series as has been arranged is any real test of a championship. There is reason for that, since in many a league the champions often find it almost out of the question to beat other teams in the race in the series of games between them. It has frequently happened in the past that a championship team has lost an individual series to some club, which was in the second division largely because it could not hit its pitchers or circumvent its particular style.

Various people have commented rather unfavorably on the division of gate receipts for the world's series in baseball, asserting that the players have not been awarded enough of the past the club windows and up the street.

The boat from Woods Hole has been in for over an hour. The mail is sorted at the postoffice. The papers are all ready for distribution. A half-hour later the papers are read and laid aside and conversation resumed.

"Say, Joe," remarks Bro. Easton, "how about that time you went into the horse racing business down South?"

"You mean down in Montevideo?" asks Joe.

"Yes."

"I never went into business," answered Joe, "I just bet a little on Allen's horse, that's all. Allen was a sort of trader down that way, and they used to be pretty smart on horse racing. So the day of the race we went over to the track and Allen says to me, 'Cap'n Joe, I think my horse is a sure winner.'"

"I didn't know anything about horses. I looked at Allen's horse, and he seemed as trim and taut as any of them, so I put down four ounces on him. There was another horse that everybody seemed to think much of. Horse was called Carraco, and he was a likely looking craft, but I thought Allen knew his business.

"Well, they started the horses and Allen's horse had the port side. This gave him advantage, Allen said. It was a very pretty race until they tackled and started for the turn home. I could then see that Carraco was leading. The driver of Allen's horse let out all the canvas he could, but the horse couldn't answer his tiller as well as he ought to, and Carraco beat him."

"How bad did he beat him, Joe?"

"Oh, I should say about half a ship's length. I know I didn't get back my four ounces, and I haven't bet anything on horses since."

Laughing at Their Railroad.

In winter the Nantucket Central railroad doesn't run. And the old captains and members of the Pacific club who have no entertainments on hand get their little amusement laughing at the railroad. Capt. Killen is the winter agent of the railroad. He is the sole sponsor for what the railroad management intends to do in summer. His ideas for next summer are crystallizing rapidly.

"This railroad is a great institution," says Capt. Killen. "It is not so old as many of our other institutions, but it looks to be the deans of them all. It was originally intended to carry people from here to 'Sconset, but about all it ever does is start with them and make the people walk after the engine breaks down. Every time the brakeman puts on the brakes the train leaves the tracks.

"There was a while last summer when we hadn't had a rainstorm for over three weeks, and the road could not run. The rails go so smooth that the wheels wouldn't stick to 'em at all. So they had to sprinkle water on the rails all the way over and let 'em rust up for a couple of days before they could get back on to schedule.

"There are four trains on the time table and one on the road. They call them the 'Nantucket and Sconset Limited,' the 'Overland Flyer,' the 'Sea View Special' and the 'Fast Mail.' I never knew why they called it the fast mail till I asked the conductor and he said that the mail bag was nailed fast to the floor of the baggage car and stayed fast all right.

"They never have many accidents on the road. Last summer they ran from 'Sconset right into the Nantucket depot without getting off the track. That was the only accident last year.

"I am not a stockholder nor a season ticket holder in the road, but I am very proud of the Nantucket Central system, as it is one of the few roads in the country that is owned by whale oil instead of Standard Oil."

Thus they while away the hours, these old men of the sea—in merry banter, in philosophy, and in the recollections of more active days. They dream again of their youth, when Nantucket was the leading whaling port of the world; when Capt. Grant made the record voyage of a cargo valued at $187,000; when money flowed like surf against the breakwater.

Town Crier on His Rounds.

Then the dream is interrupted. A loud voice is heard at the door. A hand is laid on the knob and a head is thrust into the room. Hull, the town crier, is on his rounds.

Hull is generally conceded to be the busiest man in Nantucket. Hull admits it. As a lineal descendant of Commodore Hull he feels that activity is his right of inheritance. So he keeps busy. In addition to being town crier, he is special police, master in chancery, sealer of fish scales, member of the No. 4 volunteers, a G. A. R. man in good standing, third assistant wharfinger, manager of the opera house, fence viewer, cornetist in the band, sign painter and ringer of the town bell.

And all for the same price of admission.

Hull's duties as bell ringer consist of being in the old tower at 7 in the morning, at noon, and at 9 in the evening. After the clock strikes the hour on the sweet-toned bell Hull takes the rope and proclaims to Nantucket the rising, dining and retiring hour by many strokes on the bell, which is as mellow and sweet in tone as it was when it left the foundry in Lisbon nearly a century ago.

Three times has the old town been swept by flames. In 1836 there was a great fire. In '38 the town lost about $300,000 in a single day. In 1846 the town was nearly wiped out of existence by flames in a fierce fire which lasted two days.

Jail the Leading Institution.

From the tower on a fair day a person can see the jail without a spy-glass. The jail is one of Nantucket's leading institutions. Bro. Parker has held the keys for the past fifteen years. He is a very rigid disciplinarian.

"I never let a prisoner get away if I can help it," he says. "Of course when I go sailing and I'm gone till late at night I can't keep my eye on 'em as well as I might. Very few prisoners escape, even when I'm not here. One fellow did get away about two years ago, but he wasn't much account so we let him stay away. He can't get off the island, anyhow. I met him the other day and told him if he ever came up to the jail again I'd have him arrested.

"No, we don't have many prisoners here. About two a year I should judge. I could tell exactly by looking at the records.

"It is quite a care on a man to be a keeper of a jail. It is easy enough to keep the jail all right, but to keep the people in it is the hard part. A long while ago a man robbed the bank and he was sentenced to five years in the jail. He used to come over to the jail every night regular and go to bed. He was a Union prisoner. Well, he was pardoned at the end of three years by the president, and he refused to accept the pardon. You see, if he left the jail he would have to buy his own groceries, instead of having 'em charged up like he had been doing.

"I tell all the prisoners I have that if they treat me right I'll treat them right, and I always get along with 'em pretty well."

Gaoler Parker has a merry little twinkle in his starboard eye when he talks about the jail.

SICILY'S LARGEST CITIES.

There Are No Great Municipalities More Up to Date Than Palermo and Trapani.

Palermo "La Felice" (275,000 inhabitants), the largest city of Sicily and the fifth, I believe, of Italy, is the peer in all important respects of any city of its size in the old world or the new, writes Alvan F. Sanborn, in the Boston Transcript. Even in that comparative novelty called "municipal housekeeping" it is adept. Judged by the standards of modern progress, and by these standards alone, quite without reference to the splendor of its site and the charm of its venerable monuments, it holds its own admirably in comparison with other cities.

Its docks, quays and other harbor works are solid and serviceable. Its streets are well paved (the principal ones with large square stone blocks), well swept and well lighted. Its opera house is unequalled (if both exterior and interior be considered) in the whole United States, and is surpassed by few in Europe, while two, at least, of its theaters would be worthy of any great capital. It has a satisfactory sewerage system and a superior water supply. Nowhere, to my knowledge, is water drinking made as easy as in Palermo, and nowhere have I seen such phenomenal quantities of water drunk. Water is kept running continuously before the numerous coffee and refreshment bars which are open to the sidewalk, and all passers, whether patrons or not, are privileged to make free with the glasses of the establishments, provided they rinse them properly before and after using.

Palermo has its quota of charities, philanthropies and enterprises for social betterment. Its insane hospital, just finished, is a model institution, equipped with all the appliances known to alienist science. Its other hospitals, it is true, are somewhat antiquated, but they are soon to be reconstructed on the most approved plans. The city is at present making an interesting experiment in municipal socialism by providing municipal bread.

The district immediately surrounding Palermo, known as the Conca d'Oro, from its myriad orange, lemon and mandarin groves, is one of the most marvelous garden spots on the globe. It owes its fertility mainly to a system of irrigation, the basis for which was laid centuries ago (probably by the Saracens, possibly by the Romans), but which has been restored, extended and perfected in modern times with such good effect that the gross yield of the region is said to have been increased twenty-fold.

A province that can show such an up-to-date capital as Palermo cannot be treated superciliously even by the most uncompromising modernists, and should be able to furnish valuable citizens to any country whatsoever. A majority of the Sicilian cities are behind Palermo in several respects, notably in cleanliness, but it is only fair to judge the capacities for civilization of a people in a state of slow transition by the best it is producing; and while it must be admitted that the Sicilian is not naturally cleanly, the spick-and-span condition of such cities as Palermo and Trapani demonstrate that he can be cleanly when he makes up his mind to be.

POTATO AND CHESTNUT.

Relative Merits as to Constituents Set Forth in Scientific Analysis.

The man with the hot potato can and the man with his red hot rusty tea tray riddled with holes, on which the chestnuts are grilling over a perforated iron box filled with glowing coals, are a source of much cheer on the cold winter nights to the "man in the street," and we should be sorry to see these two time-honored institutions abolished, says the Lancet. In what club, restaurant, hotel or home can be found potatoes so admirably cooked as those in the street potato can, or what chestnut is more appetizingly cooked than that which is grilled al fresco on the hot tea tray? It is not very difficult to prove that the potato can man and the chestnut man are distinct benefactors, at least, to a certain section of the public, for they provide cheap, good and excellently cooked food for the cold and hungry which at the same time comforts and warms, for both the hot potato and the hot chestnut are very often placed in the pocket for the sake of their warmth. It is an interesting fact that the hot potato and the chestnut have been picked out as practically the only foods offered for sale in this way, and on reflection we can see that, after all, this choice is based on sound dietetics. According to a recent analysis of the raw potato we find that its composition is as follows:

Per cent.	Per cent.
Water.....77.50	Starch.....13.50
Proteid.....1.20	Sugar and gum.....0.10
Mineral matter.....0.50	Fiber.....1.70
Fat.....0.10

The composition of the raw potato is: Per cent. Water.....77.50 Starch.....13.50 Proteid.....1.20 Sugar and gum.....0.10 Mineral matter.....0.50 Fiber.....1.70 Fat.....0.10

The chestnut contains, therefore, less water, more proteid, more starch, more fat, but less mineral matter than the potato. The chestnut is, in fact, more nutritious than the potato, not because it contains different constituents, but because weight for weight it contains a greater proportion of them.

Disenchanted.

Clarissa—You don't seem to be a bit impressed by Mrs. Snobson's imperiousness.

Estelle—Not a bit! You see, we happened to be staying at the same hotel one summer when it took fire in the night.—Detroit Free Press.

The Proposal.

Daisy—Did Henry kneel when he proposed to you?

Nelly—No. He made me a standing offer.—Town Topics.

Fun in Kindergarten: There was a birthday party for Cecil Buggs in the kindergarten department of the Washington school this morning, in which thirty scholars participated. Games were played and a luncheon served. A delightful time was enjoyed by all. The teachers are Miss Spoon and Miss Smith.

May Succeed Bristow. Washington, March 9.—Senator Cullom had a long conference with Postmaster General Cortelyou Wednesday, and the stock of William G. Edens as a candidate for fourth assistant postmaster general has correspondingly had a great rise. His friends are confident that Mr. Edens will be selected as the successor of Gen. Bristow. Another Illinoisan, R. F. Lawson, postmaster at Effingham, is a candidate for the place, but if the appointment goes to Illinois Mr. Edens will be chosen. Former Controller of the Currency Charles W. Dawes of Chicago is mentioned in inner circles as a most likely candidate for secretary of the treasury when Mr. Shaw retires, unless the president intends to transfer Postmaster General Cortelyou to that post and fill his place with a new man.

American Academy Sponsors. Washington, March 9.—A number of prominent Chicagoans, including Daniel H. Burnham, Albert Dean Crier, Marshall Field, W. M. R. French, head of the Art Institute; Lyman J. Gage and Charles L. Hutchinson, were named among the incorporators of the American Academy in Rome in a bill which passed Congress in the last hours of the session, and which has become a law.

Warner Takes His New Office. Washington, March 9.—Vespasian Warner Wednesday assumed his office of commissioner of pensions to succeed Commissioner Ware, who retired Nov. 14 last. Mr. Warner was a member of the Fifty-eighth congress from Illinois.

Offers Place to Democrat. Washington, March 9.—President Roosevelt is said to have offered the position of United States district attorney for the northern district of Georgia to former Representative F. C. Tate of that state, a Democrat.

Submarine Contracts. Washington, March 9.—Contracts for two submarine torpedo boats were awarded Wednesday, the vessels to be completed within eight months. One is to cost $250,000 and the other $200,000.
